Introduction
Sociology and Social Work studies are concerned with the social causes and consequences of human behavior. Subject matter ranges from the immediate family to the hostile mob, from crime to religion, and from the divisions of race and social class to the shared beliefs of a common culture.

The mission of the Sociology and Social Work Department is to:
• Prepare majors to incorporate Christian service into their careers and personal lives.
• Help General Education students gain an appreciation for the social and cultural influence affecting them, their families and society.
• Prepare majors for advanced study and careers in the fields of sociology and social work, criminology, and anthropology.
• Develop knowledge and skills related to successful human interaction and function pertaining to society, culture, the social environment, and social justice.

Career Opportunities
A degree in Sociology prepares students for higher education with eventual careers in teaching, organizational development, or research. Opportunities also exist in military and in private security. A Social Work degree will prepare students planning for careers as case workers for juvenile delinquents, mental health clients or children’s services. The department also offers a limited number of courses in anthropology, the study of humankind. These courses are designed to expand the students’ understanding of themselves in relation to other cultures and ideas.

Criminology
Criminology is an area of study within Sociology; no degree is offered. However, students who choose to take Soc 330 and four other courses related to Criminology will receive a certificate from the department. Applications are available online.

Pre-Law
Sociology or Criminology are choices for students desiring to take the LSAT (Law School Aptitude Test) and apply for law school. Students may choose other majors such as English, History, Accounting, Business, etc.

Bachelor’s Social Work Program Mission
The mission of the BYU–Idaho Social Work Program is to support the overall mission of BYU–Idaho and The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter–Day Saints, and to help students develop knowledge to become competent and effective communicators and professional social workers for generalist social work practice and Christian service with individuals, groups, families, communities, and society.

To help students of diverse interest and abilities to use and integrate social work historically grounded purposes, philosophy, knowledge, values, supervision, consultation, and skills for leadership in the evaluation and development of social policy, social service delivery systems, professional employment, and for their roles as citizens and parents.

To promote economic and social justice and prepare graduates to work within the context of their clients’ specific cultures.

Social Work Accreditation
The Baccalaureate Social Work program at BYU-Idaho is accredited by the Council on Social Work Education. (Please see a Social Work advisor if you feel you need more information or details).

Social Work Application Process
Only students accepted into the Social Work Program are Social Work majors.

Application will be required for admission to the BSW Program; the following will be required:
Second semester Sophomore standing, completion of most general education requirements, cumulative grade point average of 2.5 or higher, a statement of psychological well-being, three letters of reference, and a personal autobiography (two pages or less). In addition the following prerequisite course work: Social Work 260, Sociology 111 or 112 with grades of B range or better, Human Biology 230 or 264, Statistics 221, Psychology with grades of C range or better.

Please access the application online at www.byui.edu/socialwork/.

(Fall, Winter, Spring)

SOC 340 Research Methods

Prerequisite: Consent of Instructor, Math 221, Soc 340

This class will provide you with the methodological tools used by sociologists to understand individuals, groups and societies. We will start by reviewing the process of social scientific inquiry and the role of theory. Then we will focus on how social scientists design studies and collect data. Finally, we will begin to explore some ways in which data can be analyzed. Each of you will have the opportunity to apply what you learn as you create a research plan and collect some data of your own as part of your research project assignment. This experience should confirm the usefulness of the principles covered throughout the course and will allow you to see first-hand how the scientific method can be used to learn about your own sociological questions of interest.

(Fall, Winter, Spring)

SOC 355 LAW AND SOCIETY

(3:3:0)

This course explores the relationship between the government and citizens, and the role of law and civil rights.

(Fall, Winter, Spring even years)

The basic knowledge and skills necessary to lead and participate effectively in organizational and social settings. Leadership skills are enhanced through understanding self, interpersonal relations, families, various levels of social strate and organizations. Students are expected to participate in various classroom experiences.

(Fall, Winter, Spring)

SOC 360 Religion’s Impact on Society

(3:3:0)

A mounting body of research showing that religion is playing a significant role in society has forced researchers to more seriously consider the impact of religion on politics, economics, family life, and deviance, among other things. Contemporary events such as 9/11, the Israeli-Arab conflict and the culture wars are all helping to drive the reemerging sociology of religion field. In this class we will read and discuss different sociological perspectives related to the sociology of religion. We will explore the validity of secularization theory and examine why people believe in religious things. We will also consider what impact religion has on individual and social life and the dynamics of religious groups and markets.

(Fall, Winter, Spring)

SOC 370 Social Stratification

(Winter, Fall, Spring)

SOC 395R Direct Study

(1:3:0)

Develop further understanding of special interest topics in sociology. Sociological topic chosen by student and approved by instructor.

(Upon Request)
Soc 400 Sociological Analysis
Prerequisite: Math 108 or Math 221, Soc 340
Sociologists are interested in identifying and understanding patterns in society. Unfortunately, most of the patterns of interest to sociologists are impossible to verify through simplistic personal observations. Consequently, in order to better understand society, sociologists use various methods of data collection which often involve large samples of certain populations. Once collected these datasets can be analyzed in a number of different ways which tell us useful things about the populations we are curious about. The primary focus of this course will be to help you understand and apply certain quantitative tools that sociologists regularly use to identify, verify and interpret specific patterns among individuals, groups and societies. You will also have the opportunity to see first-hand how the statistical analysis can be used to learn about your own sociological questions of interest.
(Fall, Winter, Spring)

SOC 420 Drugs and Society
This course explores the place drugs have in American Society. It includes society's use of and attitude towards drugs as it explores the history of drugs. The power and influence of drugs, the acceptance and rejection of drugs, an understanding of the classification of drugs, legal responses, and treatment programs for drug abuse are also addressed.
(Fall, Winter, Spring)

SOC 440 Corrections
An overview of the role of corrections in our justice system and critical analysis of contemporary correctional theory and practice. Historical, traditional, innovative, and future aspects of corrections as well as critical issues such as prisoners' rights, death penalty, unions, and institutions, and correctional careers will be discussed.
(Fall, Winter, Spring, odd years)

SOC 450 Social Inequalities
Prerequisite: Soc 300
An examination of social inequality in the United States and comparisons to other countries. Focus on the sources of consequences of inequality for both individuals and social institutions.
(Fall, Winter, Spring)

SOC 451 Self and Society
Prerequisite: Soc 111
This course is designed to explore the social bases of self-concept and definition. The social nature of the SELF is key to self-understanding and adoption to the social world of which we are all ultimately a part. The imprint of socialization, e.g. (the process whereby individuals learn and internalize their attitudes, values, and behaviors to function as social beings and responsive participating members of society), ensures that the individual will develop an identity, or self.
(Fall, Winter, Spring)

SOC 460 Community Studies
The changing nature of social life as it has moved from predominantly rural to urban patterns. Significant events that have led to urbanization.
(Spring)

SOC 462 Sociology of Death and Dying
Examine phenomena related to death and dying utilizing the sociological perspective.
(Fall & Winter Odd years, Spring even years)

SOC 490R Special Topics in Sociology
The department will determine special areas of study that will benefit the Sociology students in giving them additional preparation related to the field. Term of enrollment, credit and other details will be arranged by the department and the instructor.

Senior research is designed to promote excellence in undergraduate research. You will individually research a topic that interests you under the direction of a faculty member.
(Fall, Winter, Spring)

SOC 498R Senior Internship in Sociology
Prerequisite: Consent of instructor. Should be a 1st or 2nd semester senior majoring in Sociology.
This course will give students work experience in areas of sociology and criminology.
(Fall, Winter, Spring)

SW 260 Introduction to Social Work
Social Welfare as a social institution and the emergence of social work as a profession. An overview of historical understandings to develop social work knowledge, historically grounded purposes, and fundamental values and ethics for generalist practice.
(Fall, Winter)

SW 311 Family Interaction
This course explores the dynamics of family life with the use of multiple theoretical perspectives. It also investigates the impact that environmental and developmental factors have on families over time. Assessment of family functioning as well as social work intervention strategies are covered.
(Fall, Winter, Spring)

SW 340 Social Work Research Methods
Prerequisite: Consent of Instructor, FDMA 221
Qualitative and quantitative research designs. Problems formulation, data collection, statistical analysis, writing, and presenting results. Knowledge is used to assess and apply qualitative, empirical related research and technology to social work generalist practice. Practical uses for research, to inform policy, promote social change, improve clinical work, and enhance program delivery.
(Fall, Winter, Spring)

SW 362 Social Work Practice 1-Individuals
Prerequisite: Admission to SW program
To introduce, explore, and blend knowledge, values, ethics, and skills used by social workers. Social Work practice using the generalist method i.e. relationship identifying issues, problems, resources, assessment, intervention, evaluation, and termination with a diverse client population.
(Fall, Winter, Spring)

SW 364 Social Work Practice II Group
Prerequisite: Admission to program
The basic knowledge and skills necessary to lead and participate effectively in small groups. Students will participate in small group experiences.
(Fall, Winter)

SW 365 Social Work Practice III-Community/Macro
Prerequisite: Admission to program
This class prepares students with knowledge, values, skills, and ethics for macro level generalist social work practice. Topics include community, bureaucracy, social planning, social action, and locality organization development.
(Fall, Winter, Spring)

SW 367 Human Behavior in Social Environment
Prerequisite: Admission to SW program
This course introduces social work's perspective on human behavior and the social environment. A social systems approach is used to focus on the bio-psycho-social context of human development. Relationships between life-span issues and the understanding of person-environment transactions and use of the generalist social work method with individuals, families, groups, organizations, communities, culture, and society are all areas of study. Discussion of empirical theories and knowledge about the interaction between and among systems. The ways in which social systems promote or deter people in maintaining or achieving health and well being is explored.
(Fall, Winter, Spring)

SW 400 Social Work Values & Ethics
Prerequisite: Admission to SW program
An overview of values and principles of ethical decision making for social workers using the National Association of Social Workers Code of Ethics as a backdrop. Students will have the opportunity to become aware of personal values, the values of the social work profession, and to discuss various ethical dilemmas and their effect on agencies, clients, and social work practice. Students will learn that social work values and ethics are woven into the fabric of generalist social work practice with all populations.
