Welcome to Brigham Young University-Idaho. This institution is in a wonderful season of growth and innovation. Students are gathering on this campus to receive a quality education in an environment centered on the gospel of Jesus Christ. While here, you will have opportunities to develop as disciples of the Savior and prepare to become capable leaders in your family, the Church, and the communities where you live.

Centered on a faith-building educational process known as the Learning Model, BYU-Idaho provides a gospel-centered environment focused on active teaching and experiential learning. The Learning Model emphasizes individual preparation, collaborative and reflective learning opportunities, and the need for both instructors and learners to rely on the guidance of the Holy Ghost.

I encourage you to embrace all that BYU-Idaho has to offer. Become immersed in learning. Fulfill an internship. Get involved in the student-led Activities Program. Take full advantage of opportunities to enhance your discipleship by obeying the Honor Code, attending devotional weekly, and being active in your campus ward. These experiences will enrich your life, provide you with valuable knowledge, and prepare you to serve, love, and lift others.

Again, welcome to campus. May the Lord bless you with happiness and success as you make the most of your opportunities here at BYU-Idaho.

Best regards,

Kim B. Clark
President, Brigham Young University-Idaho
